Warrant issued for Bolivian ex-president over alleged relationship with minor

London, December 18: Bolivia's former president Evo Morales has claimed he is the victim of a "brutal judicial war" orchestrated by the current president, Luis Arce, after prosecutors issued an arrest warrant over his alleged relationship with a minor. On Monday, public prosecutor Sandra Gutiérrez revealed that a warrant for Morales's arrest has been active since October. He is accused of "human trafficking" involving a 15-year-old girl with whom he allegedly fathered a child in 2016. Gutiérrez said the warrant has yet to be executed because of a "risk to the lives of police officers" attempting to enforce it since Morales has been under the protection of coca growers in the rural region of Cochabamba, where he lives. In a post on the social media platform X, Morales, 65, who governed from 2006 to 2019, accused Arce—a former ally turned bitter rival—of engaging in "lawfare" against him in order to hand him over to the United States as a "trophy of war". Morales, Bolivia's first Indigenous president, has denied the allegations, calling them a strategy by Arce to block him from running in the 2025 presidential elections. Both politicians belong to the leftist Movimiento al Socialismo (Mas), and Arce, 61, once served as Morales's finance minister. But the two have been at odds and are now competing for the party's presidential nomination. Morales is aligned with rural coca growers, while Arce's support mainly comes from the urban middle and working classes. "There is a deep political and economic crisis in Bolivia at the moment," said Angus McNelly, a lecturer in international development at King's College London and the author of a recent book on Bolivian politics. During Morales's presidency, Bolivia experienced a period of economic progress and poverty reduction, largely thanks to a gas commodities boom. In 2019, he successfully ran for an unconstitutional third consecutive term, prompting widespread protests. Under pressure from the military, Morales resigned and fled the country. In what many consider a coup, the senator Jeanine Áñez declared herself interim president, standing down in 2020 when fresh elections were called. Morales handpicked Arce as his successor, and with Mas's victory, the former leader returned home. But with a sharp decline in its natural gas reserves, the country has experienced steep economic deterioration, marked by a shortage of US dollars and a sharp drop in imports such as fuel and food. "Economic crises usually lead to massive political fractures," said McNelly. "What's strange in Bolivia's case is that all this political polarisation is happening within the same party." McNelly said one reason for this is the weakness of Bolivia's opposition, which remains incapable of mounting a serious challenge to Mas.

National Statistical Office organised Regional Training Camp for upcoming Socio-Economic and Labour Force Surveys

Assam Rising, Guwahati December 18: The National Statistical Office (NSO) under the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation (MoSPI) is set to conduct enhanced surveys starting in January 2025. As part of these efforts, a four-day Regional Training Camp (RTC) is being held from December 16 to December 19, 2024, in Guwahati for all field personnel involved in these surveys in the Field Operations Divisions, Regional Office Guwahati. Smt. Pally Kundu ISS, Additional Director General, inaugurated the Regional Training Camp and stressed the importance of health data for compiling the National Health. She also encouraged regional offices to ensure the timely and accurate collection of data, especially as they are tasked with handling an enormous volume of information. Swapnalee Bhattacharya ISS, Deputy Director General, highlighted the growing importance of the surveys, particularly the increase in sample size, which will more than double the number of households covered compared to previous rounds. She emphasized the significant role of these surveys in estimating labour force and household enterprises, and urged the public to cooperate with the surveyors to ensure accurate data collection. During the four day regional training, the first day covered the Periodic Labour Force Survey which estimates the characteristics of the labour force of the country. On the second and the third day, training will be imparted on Socio-economic round of NSS - the 80th Round consisting of Survey on Health (Jan-Dec 2025), for estimating health indicators and a three month (Jan-Mar 2024) Comprehensive Modular Survey-Telecom, (CMS-T) for providing information on telecom-related indicators and ICT skills. On the fourth day, participants will be trained on lesser-known economic sector of the country, which is now being estimated through the Annual Survey of Unincorporated Sector Enterprises, popularly acronymed as ASUSE. The State Government of Assam also plays an important role in collecting data of the NSS SE Survey, and the Training Camp also trained officers from the Department of Economic and Statistics, Govt. of Assam.
